

THE ADVOCATE.

JOHN WILL KEEP QUIET.

Exasperating Adventure of a Couple Who Live in an Apartment House.

A young married couple who live in an apartment house up in Madison avenue went out to dine Sunday afternoon, and as they had allowed the servants the same privilege the apartment was deserted when the owners returned in the early evening. When they had disembarked from the elevator and the lord of the household began to fumble for keys he was horrified to discover that they were either lost or snugly ensconced at that moment in some other and inaccessible pocket.

"Carrie," he said in stricken tones, "I think—I'm afraid—that is, I've left my keys!"

"You don't mean it?" she ejaculated.

"I really do," he said, fumbling nervously in impossible nooks and crannies of clothing for the longed for bunch.

"The elevator boy of course has a key," announced his wife. "Call him."

"There are only two, and we have both," he answered briefly, still fumbling in a hopeless way.

"Can you pick the lock, Edward?" she asked.

"I was not educated for a burglar, Caroline."

"Then we must send for a locksmith."

"Tonight—no shops are open. I am afraid we must either break the door or send to the superintendent," he said decisively.

They rang the bell for the elevator, and sat dismally on the stairs till it came.

It is a terrible thing to sit on an apartment house stair and look at your own door closed against you.

"John," said the keyless proprietor when the elevator arrived, "have you a key that will fit our door?"

"No, sir."

"Is the superintendent in the building?"

"He has went to Harlem, sir, to spend the evening."

Two groans.

"John, you are not a large man."

"No, sir."

"Do you suppose (with a gleam of hope) that if I offered you a dollar and boosted you could squeeze through the transom?"

"I might try, sir."

"I wish you would." There was a rattle of coins followed by much shuffling, pushing and squirming, and at length only a pair of irregular elevator boy legs capped by a pair of dilapidated shoes remained in sight. Having gone that far, John stuck.

"Hi, there!" came in muffled tones from the half inside.

"Yes."

"Try the door."

The luckless flat owner turned the knob, and to his astonishment the door opened, and inside, hanging on the lock, was the bunch of keys.

"Caroline," he whispered, "The door's open—wasn't locked at all."

"Well, you're a careless thing, and you ought to be ashamed of yourself for leaving the flat unlocked," she declared emphatically.

But her husband did not hear. He gave a final pull at the dangling humanity over the door and landed it on the inside.

"John," he said anxiously, "you can keep quiet sometimes?"

"Sometimes, sir."

"Here's another dollar. You understand."—New York Tribune.

An Interesting Heli.

The Portland Press club has come into possession of an interesting piece of furniture—one of the two old wooden desks provided by the Maine legislature for the legislative reporters in the house of representatives dated back to the time of the removal of the seat of government from Portland to Augusta in 1832.

It was in constant use to the rebuilding of the state house two years ago. At it sat James G. Blaine, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller and other prominent Maine men during their journalistic career.

The desk is of pine, painted and grained, with the slender, graceful legs so much in vogue in the furniture fifty years ago.—Bangor Commercial.

Two Definitions of a Gentleman.

To be a gentleman "is to be honest, to be gentle, to be generous, to be brave, to be wise; and possessed of all these qualities to exercise them in the most graceful manner," says the great novelist Thackeray.

A dinner became so noisy that the proprietor directed his removal. The waiter who successfully accomplished this, on returning to the room, expressed his regret at having been obliged to put the individual out, for, said he, with emphasis, "He's a perfect gentleman!" adding, after a pause, as if to explain how he arrived at so decided a conclusion, "he gave me 'alf a crown."—Notes and Queries.

Dolan Denmark.

This premium Denmark saddle stallion will make the present season of 1892 at my farm at $12 to insure a Living Colt.

DOLAN DENMARK is a dark bay, 15½ hands high, foaled May 15th, 1888, with an extra heavy mane and tail.

Sired by the great Washington, the sweep-stake saddle stallion of the world; next dam by Washington Denmark, the founder of the world-renowned saddle horse family. Washington is by Cromwell, he by Washington Denmark, he by Glines' Denmark, sire of paces with records better than 2:25. Trojan by Bagnoli, he by Mambrino Chief.

DOLAN DENMARK is as high bred as any saddle stallion in Montgomery county or Kentucky. He traces to Washington Denmark on both sides and is backed up by Mambrino Chief and Brown Pilot, the sire of Pilot, Jr., the horse that is so famous in the pedigrees of the great trotters such as Maud S., 2:30½, Jay-Eve-See 2:16, etc.

I stand my stallion lower than any stallion I know of with his individuality and breeding. A lien reserved on all colts under all conditions. Service money due when mare is parted with or traded on. Grass furnished at 8¢, cents per day.

ENGLISH ANDERSON.

Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment.

A certain cure for Chronic Sore Eyes, Tetters, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Old Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Prairie Scratches, Sore Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by it after all other treatment had failed. It is put up in 25 and 50 cent boxes.

PURE DEMOCRACY!

The kind that made our country one of the greatest powers among nations, is what is now needed to combat the crisis prophesied by that true patriot, Abraham Lincoln, who said:

"We may all congratulate ourselves that the cruel war is nearing its close. It has indeed been a trying hour for the Republic: But I see in the near future a crisis arising that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow. The Money Power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the Republic destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war."

There is no disguising the fact, that the condition now confronts us which caused the patriot Lincoln so much anxiety.

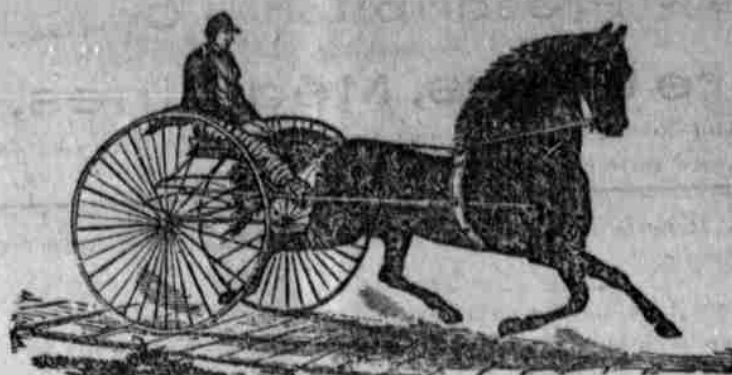

A money power controls political parties and all important elections, placing its agents in high places of honor and trust.

The same power controls all legislation and dictates what shall be the law of the land, a result made possible and easy by "working upon the prejudice of the people" through the medium of the public press, of which ninety-nine out of every hundred are either owned in full or part, or controlled by its agency.

The political contest of 1892 will again test the strength of this money power, different from previous efforts only in its greater virulence and ability to deceive.

Like an oasis in the desert, the Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer rises equal to the emergency, placing before its readers unbiased truth and facts so harmful to corruptionists' plans, and beneficial to the people. "Truth is mighty and will prevail," is the Enquirer platform. It is always great comfort to read the Enquirer.

ALTAMORE.

A BEAUTIFUL BAY, 15½ hands high, heavy mane and tail, black legs powerfully muscled, fine style and a perfect model. Is just eight years old and is in excellent breeding condition. This celebrated trotter will make the present season at Thomas Ragan's, two miles from Mt. Sterling, between the Maysville and Hinkston pike at

$15 TO INSURE A LIVING COLT.

A lien will be retained on all colts for season money. Money due when mare foals, is parted with or bred to another horse without permission.

ALTAMORE was sired by Strathmore 88, sire of Santa Claus 2:17½, and 33 more in 2:30 or better; sire of 11 dams of 13 performers in 2:30; sire of 8 sons with 9 performers in 2:30; sire of Santa Claus, sire of Sidney 2:19½; sire of 7 performers in 2:30, including Gold Leaf 2:13½; Adonis 2:14½; Pandine (2 years), 2:24½; Fleet (3 years), 2:26½.

Dam by Alta 708, sire of Stanger 2:29; Roger Hanson 2:30½; of dam of Dolly Wilkes 2:28½; Roger Hanson, sire of Jessie Hanson 2:22½; Billy Worthington, 2:27½.

Second dam by Highland Chief, sire of Lady Thomas, dam of Santa Claus 2:16½; Trinidad 2:22½; granddam of Hollyn 2:23½.

Strathmore, sire of 37 in 2:30 list, by Hambletonian; 1st dam Lady Waltemuse, dam of Marshal Ney, by North American; 2nd dam said to be by Hambletonian.

Alta by American City; 1st dam Lady Turner by Mambrino Chief.

This low season price will enable any one to breed to one of the finest bred trotters in this section. ALTAMORE, in two months' training, trotted a full mile in 2:35.

Also at the same time and place

FURNITURE.

I AM in it to win, and will do it by handling only the best make of goods and selling at a small profit. The time is off for success in a small business with large profits. BUSINESS MEN can only hope to attain success, in this day of progress, by many sales, each article bearing a small profit; and then, every customer must be treated alike. How unfair it is to sell to one man at a certain price, and because his neighbor is a little closer, to sell to him for less money. It is not right. My stock of FURNITURE is entirely NEW, not a piece of old stock. It has been purchased for the cash, it is in my store less all discounts. Buying my entire stock at once, by car-load shipments, I have saved considerable freight expense, and by these methods my stock is put in the store much cheaper than when small orders are made, hence I can sell at VERY CLOSE FIGURES, saving money to my customers and making some for myself. Goods which I have subjected to very low prices:

BED ROOM SUITS, DINING-ROOM FURNITURE, PARLOR SUITS, FOLDING BEDS, WARDROBES, BOOK-CASES, SIDE-BOARDS, ETC.

I also keep a complete line of CASKETS in my Undertaking Department, and, having graduated in this business, in offering my services it is with the confidence that I understand the business and can give satisfaction.
